FROM THE PASTOR

Today, our Scripture focuses on the Beatitudes. The poor in spirit... This has more to do with an attitude of neediness and of humility towards God than with material poverty. The person who is poor in spirit looks to God, not to himself, for salvation, trusting in God's mercy. Those who mourn... We are blessed, Jesus tells us, when we suffer and bear our suffering with love and a spirit of atonement. We are also blessed when we are genuinely sorry for our sins, or are pained by the offenses of others. The Spirit of God consoles us when we weep for our sins, and gives us a share in the fullness of happiness and glory in Heaven. The meek... We are meek when we patiently suffer unjust persecution; when we remain serene, humble and steadfast in adversity; when we don't give in to resentment or discouragement. Our irritabilities often stem from a lack of humility and interior peace. The clean of heart... When we speak of a person's heart, we refer not just to his emotions, but to the whole person in his loving dealings with others. To be clean of heart is a gift of God. It's the capacity to love, in having an upright and pure attitude to everything noble. The persecuted... Blessed are those who are persecuted because they are holy, or striving to be holy, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. Jesus blesses those who suffer persecution for being true to Jesus, those who suffer patiently and joyfully.

Circumstances arise in every Christian's life that call for a sort of heroism – situations where no compromise is possible. We either stay true to Jesus Christ whatever the cost to our reputation, life or possessions, or we deny Him. We are all called to be witnesses to the truth of Jesus Christ. A refusal to do so is a sign of weak faith, a refusal to trust that God will be with us to support and strengthen us. Leading the Christian life is never easy, and suffering always tests our faith. We know we can always trust in God's help.

Remember to submit your choice of name for our family of parishes. Hopefully, in the near future, we will have a chosen name to refer to ourselves other than the S-3 Family of parishes. Sometime in February, the Pathways Team should be receiving the results from the Disciple Maker Index from Catholic Leadership Institute that will assist in making decisions for our family of parishes.
